Changing Face of Princeton's CBD: Stores Moving, Buildings for Sale

Davidson's move to new quarters on "east" Nassau Street leaves a large ground floor space available for rent at 172 Nassau Street. Other changes in the retail Central Business District can be expected as current tenants move out, new tenants move in, empty space fills up and whole buildings are sold.

Up the street, in the former Bellows building at the corner of Moore Street, Polo-Ralph Lauren will be leaving to take space in the Princeton Forrestal Shopping Center. Just when is not yet certain, according to Edward McCabe of E.R. Keller Associates, which owns the building at 210 Nassau Street and holds the 10-year lease.

There has been other retail interest in the building, Mr. McCabe confirmed, including the possibility that Merrick's dress shop might move around the corner from No. 6 Moore Street to occupy the larger quarters.

Across Nassau Street, at No. 201, in the brick building vacated by the Mason Griffin & Pierson firm two years ago, renovations are taking place in the ground floor space to allow an oriental rug company to move in. The Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment granted the required change in use from office to retail, and the Site Plan Review Advisory Board reviewed plans for display windows.

In the other direction, both the Hulit's Shoes building at 140 Nassau Street and the brick building at 134, which includes Allen's Children's Center and a liquor store, are reportedly for sale. Pete Hulit declined to give out any information, and Fred Abelson of Allen's Children's Center was not available Tuesday. The asking price for each is reportedly in excess of $2 million for the Hulit's building and around $4 million for No. 134.

In between is the Laidlaw building, 138 Nassau Street, which is occupied on the ground floor by the brokerage firm, Laidlaw Adams & Peck, but where office and apartment space above have been vacant since the building was built several years ago.

There have been several changes in this part of Nassau Street over the past year and a half, including the establishment of Hamilton Jewelers in the ground floor of renovated and refurbished former Lower Pyne building and the immi-

Davidson's Move to Lower Nassau Street Has Created Parking Problems in the Area

Car decals for residents of Maple and other streets have been suggested by Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund as a way to ease parking problems aggravated by Davidson's move to the east end of Nassau Street.

Complaints have been voiced by some Maple Street residents that the store's employees have been parking on their street all day. This has made it difficult for those who live on the street — some of whom have no driveway — to find parking places near their homes.

In hopes of easing the situation, Mayor Sigmund has asked the management of Davidson's to direct employees to the ten-hour meters along William Street. But this, she noted, will be hard for the Borough to enforce.

The Borough also anticipates adding parking spaces behind the WaWa building, and has scheduled a meeting for Wednesday, July 1, with the owner of the building, the Borough engineering department, and neighbors on Murray Place. The Murray Place residents are concerned that the buffer of trees between the WaWa property and their homes will be eliminated to create more spaces.

Mayor Sigmund denied this, saying the Borough will seek as many extra places as possible while still retaining the buffer. She would not say, however, how many parking places will be sought

By all accounts, the formidable traffic and circulation problems caused by last week's Davidson's opening have eased. The store has hired off-duty police officers to direct traffic, and store manager Lou Funk is certain that the sightseers have gone and only the serious shoppers remain. He added that as soon as people find a convenient time to shop, they will stay away from peak periods.

The Borough will decide at its meeting scheduled for July 9 whether to accept the Zoning Board's recommendation

Garbage Strike Possible; Township Prepares Plans

As the deadline for contract negotiations with unionized garbage haulers neared on Tuesday, as TOWN TOPICS went to press, the Sewer Operating Committee was planning to make dumpsters available at the River Road landfill in the event of a garbage strike.

Borough residents would not be affected by the strike, because their garbage is picked up in municipal collection by National Waste Disposal, a non-union company. The eight Township collection districts are also served by National Waste. According to Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the residents who might be affected by a garbage strike would be some 600-650 people living in the Riverside area who use the Higgins Disposal Company as a private hauler.

As the midnight deadline neared, the Township issued emergency regulations in

Is This Charge Accurate? Some Township Residents Question Garbage Costs

Residents in certain areas of the Township are up in arms over the tripling of garbage pick-up costs that are part of the 1987 tax bill.

These residents used to be served by private collection, or they took their own garbage to the transfer station on River Road. When the Sewer Operating Committee, with the blessing of the two municipalities, decided to close the transfer operation two years ago, rather than raise the major capital funds needed to replace outmoded and worn out equipment, haulers were forced to truck garbage directly to the designated landfill.

For Mercer County, which has not yet adopted a solid waste disposal plan, the designated landfill was GROWS, in Falls Township, Pa. For some of the smaller private collectors, the expense of the long haul was more than their business could bear, and they gave up collecting garbage.

The Township then made it possible for residents to band together to create a municipal garbage collection district. Three new districts were created in this process.

that a left turn be banned for cars leaving the Davidson's lot between 4 and 6 p.m. It is Mayor Sigmund's feeling that traffic will regulate itself in a short time, making such an ordinance unnecessary.

New Roadway. But the Borough's hopes for an improved circulation pattern in and out of the Davidson's lot, as well as for still more parking places, rests on the new roadway it plans to build behind the market through to Olden Street.

The new artery — which would direct traffic from the rear of the alley between WaWa and Davidson's west to Olden, and then north to a proposed traffic light on Nassau and Olden — could provide as many as 44 additional metered spaces, according to the mayor.

Some opposition to the proposed new roadway surfaced last week from personnel at Princeton University's Engineering Quadrangle. However, in 1959, the University agreed to a variance by the Zoning Board that it would make available the required right of way if and when the Borough needed to build a roadway adjacent to the Engineering Quadrangle.

The variance was contained in a resolution granting Zoning Board approval for the building of the Quadrangle.

Mayor Sigmund expressed concern, however, that the resistance expressed might slow the planning and construction of the roadway, which she hopes will be completed by early spring.

The artery would run behind Davidson's, Community Guidance, the Karl Light property known as Nassau East, and New Jersey Bell.

Taking an overall look at the parking and traffic circulation situation in the area surrounding Davidson's, the mayor said that the problems are serious, "but are capable of remediation."

the event of a strike. Township officials suggested that if private haulers go on strike, residents may wish to contact National Waste at 883-1420, or David Taylor at 921-8391, or Joe's Disposal, 297-0724, to make alternate arrangements.

Residents unable to contract with an alternate private hauler would be allowed to take "wet" or putrescible waste, including food remnants and disposable diapers, to the dumpsters which the Sewer Operating Committee expected to have placed at the SOC landfill on River Road. If the strike materializes, this dumpster service will begin on Monday and will be available on Mondays from 8 to 7 and on Saturdays from 8 to 3.

Residents were asked to separate recyclable materials, such as newspapers, glass and aluminum cans, and take them to the recycling center at the Shopping Center. They were also asked to avoid using throw-away paper or plastic plates and cups whenever possible.

Those residents unable to contract with an alternate hauler, and unable to use the dumpster service, were advised to place putrescible garbage in double plastic bags tied securely. The bags should be placed in garbage cans with tight fitting lids and stored outside in a cool area, if possible.

If the strike is called, and if it is prolonged, an ounce or two of household ammonia will mask odors and make the waste less attractive to domestic pets and other small animals, the Township advisory suggests. It adds that residents should keep children and pets away from stored waste.

Decision Is Anticipated On Dinky Parking Lottery

A Princeton University spokesman anticipates that New Jersey Transit (NJT) will decide Wednesday, July 1, whether to change its mind and permit the University to hold a two-tier lottery — giving preferential treatment to Princeton residents — for 127 parking places in the new Dinky parking lot.

Justin Harmon said there will be a meeting of NJT's full board that day, and he believes the University will be given its answer after the meeting.

He added that the University was "very hopeful" that NJT would allow it to go ahead with its two-tier plan giving preferential treatment for 64 spaces to residents of Princeton Borough and Township. Applicants unsuccessful in the first drawing, and applicants from all other towns, would then be entered into a second drawing to allocate the remaining 63 spaces.

When New Jersey Transit was informed of the University's plan, however, it balked, reminding the University that a stipulation in its purchase of the Dinky three years ago provided that no discrimination be made on the basis of residency.

Having then requested NJT to reconsider its decision, the University is now waiting for the outcome. Also waiting to see what happens is Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund. She wants to see the University's plan giving preference to Princeton residents go forward. "Extra municipal services will be needed for such things as street repair and cleaning and police protection," said the mayor. "Princeton residents should have preference."

The University has been accepting applications for the lottery for the past six days. So far, 20 have come in, about half from surrounding municipalities including Lawrence and Montgomery. The acceptance process is in no way contingent on whether the eventual lottery will provide preference to Princeton residents.

Applications are available at the Dinky and at the kiosk between Firestone Library and Joseph Henry House on the University campus. Persons wishing applications may enter the University driveway opposite South Tulane Street between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. and obtain them from the public safety officer on duty.

Completed applications must be returned to the Department of Public Safety at the University by July 24. The quarterly permit fee is $60, and the lot is expected to open September 1.

SWEET TREAT: Lisa Fleming and Daniella LaValva of Rosa's Cafe offer Italian raspberry cakes at Princeton Shopping Center's Italian Festival.

Change in Timing Set For Nassau Traffic Light

The state Department of Transportation has agreed to increase the length of the green cycle in the traffic signal at the intersection of Nassau Street/Vandeventer Avenue/Washington Road. The decision resulted from concerns voiced to DOT officials by Borough Police and the Mayor's office that the shortened timing was causing long lines and backups in all directions.

The DOT also agreed to take another look at the value of the left-turn-only signals at the intersection. Borough officials believe traffic flowed more smoothly when there were two lanes moving east on Nassau Street, even though they had to merge into only one lane after the Washington Road intersection.

However, a state guideline states that, when a street is continuous, two lanes should not be permitted to merge into one — or vice versa. The question now is whether the DOT will ignore this guideline and re-install the previous traffic pattern, as the Borough wishes.

Borough Council Addresses East Nassau St. Gridlock

How do you keep traffic moving on Nassau Street, provide parking for business district workers, and keep the Borough's remaining service district vital by offering parking and controlling congestion? Add to this concern for the quality of life on residential streets and the threat of new construction by Princeton University, and the eastern end of Nassau Street provides a microcosm of the questions facing central New Jersey.

Borough Council has begun to address the problems of eastern Nassau Street, following the opening of the new Davidson's market. At last week's council meeting, Murray Place residents voiced concern about expansion of the parking lot behind WaWa. They protested loss of the wooded area behind the store which provides a buffer from noise, exhaust and dirt. "We're going to be living on top of a parking lot and loading zone for tractor trailers," claimed Richard Burkholder, 15 Murray Place.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

School Takeover Bill

A measure that would permit the state to take over a school district that was unable to meet state standards, abolish its school board, and fire top administrators has been approved by the state Assembly.

The legislation is strongly supported by Gov. Thomas Kean and opposed by such groups as the New Jersey Education Association and the New Jersey Principals and Supervisors Association.

The bill now goes to the Democratic-controlled Senate for a vote. Lobbyists against the measure predict they will have more success there.

A Stadium In the Future?

A bill has been introduced in the state Assembly that would ask voters to approve a $185 million bond issue to finance a baseball stadium in the Meadowlands.

The measure would place the question on the November ballot. But, even if approved by the voters, no bonds could be sold unless the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority won a commitment from a major league baseball team to make the new stadium its home.

Rate Change at N.J. Bell

There will be some ups and downs at New Jersey Bell for residential and small business customers.

Beginning now, the company's subscriber line charge, a basic monthly fee for single-line residential and business customers, will go up from $2 to $2.60. But customers will pay about three percent less each month for short-distance calls. Residential customers should see an average decrease of 21 cents a month for calls made within their local calling area.

Possible Tax Breaks

The state Assembly has approved ballot questions that would increase property tax credits for both senior citizens and veterans.

If voters approve in November, the tax rebate for seniors would increase from $250 to $300 a year, with the income threshold rising from $10,000 to $15,000. Veterans would see their tax credit double, from $50 to $100 per year.

Host Liability Limits

The state Assembly has approved a measure which would make it harder to sue a host who serves alcohol at parties. In addition, hosts could no longer be held responsible for the entire amount of a court award, but only for their percentage of negligence.

In order for the host to be sued under the new bill, the drinker would have had to consume at least enough alcohol to surpass the .10 blood alcohol level. Between .10 and .14, it would be presumed that the host could not know his or her guest was intoxicated, thus making a suit more difficult.

The measure must now return to the Senate for concurrence in the change made by the Assembly limiting a host's liability.

Drunk Driving Crackdown

The state Senate has passed a bill which would impose a stricter standard for drunk driving on truck and bus drivers by lowering the legal blood alcohol content level to .04 percent instead of the .10 percent required under the law.

The bill, which was approved 30-0 in the Senate, now goes to the Assembly for a vote.

While the WaWa building's lawyer Daniel Haggerty offered assurances that most of the wooded lot would remain, the number of parking spaces that WaWa will be required by the Borough to build was still under debate by Council and WaWa.

While the short-term parking problems for Davidson's, WaWa, and the Coin-op laundry still need to be settled, Mayor Sigmund stressed that more traffic relief will come with construction of the new road connecting the alley between Davidson's and WaWa to Olden Street, adjacent to the University's engineering quad.

The parking problems in the central business district have overflowed to the east with the re-opening of Davidson's, bringing them into the spotlight at the meeting. Jack Morrison of Nassau Street Seafood expressed concern about customer parking on Pine and Maple Street. He suggested two-hour parking meters for customers of the service district since Davidson's employees will be using Pine and Maple Streets for long-term free parking.

Councilman Urken acknowledged the problems for the fish store but stressed that employees of his business and all downtown businesses depended on this area for free all day parking.

Fireworks Warning

Independence Day is a time for celebration. But for many people in New Jersey, the celebration may quickly turn to tragedy when illegal fireworks become involved.

Commissioner Charles Serraino of the New Jersey Department of Labor has issued a warning that the sale and use of fireworks, except caps and fireworks approved for public display, is prohibited by New Jersey law.

The law prohibits the sale of all fireworks — only certain paper or plastic caps for use in toy guns are allowed.

Hospitals reported a total of 137 persons who were treated last year for injuries from illegal fireworks. These injuries ranged from simple burns and lacerations to serious injuries, including partial amputations and temporary hearing loss.

Many of the more serious accidents resulted from the use of cherry bombs, M-80s and aerial rockets. It is illegal to manufacture or sell these under federal and state law.

Under recent amendments to the fireworks laws in New Jersey, the penalties for the sale or offering for sale is now $1,000 and/or imprisonment for up to six months. Penalties for the discharge or possession of fireworks have been increased from $100 to $500 and/or imprisonment for up to 30 days.

Councilman Reed added a new perspective to the discussion, describing the new computer center that the University is planning to build on top of the parking lot on the corner of Olden and William Streets. While the University provides parking for its employees, Councilman Reed asked, "If the workers are given decals too far from the building — as far away as Jadwin — will they use the lots or just park on the street?"

The new building, which will be just part of a new quadrangle, is currently before the Environmental Site Plan Committee and will come before the Planning Board on August 4.

While no immediate decisions were made about the area's growing problems, a meeting was scheduled for local businesses and Murray Place residents to discuss the WaWa parking lot problems. Mayor Sigmund suggested that the Council study the University's building plans, and monitor the area now that Davidson's has opened, to see how the new traffic is absorbed.

In related business during the June 23 Council meeting, an ordinance amendment reducing the speed limit on Chestnut Street to 20 m.p.h. was approved by the Council. The Borough had wanted to set the speed limit to 15 m.p.h. but the State Department of Transportation would not reduce it to less than 20.

Borough police chief Carnevale expressed concern for the number of burglaries and thefts during the month of May in his report to Council. He said that the numbers were at 36 this year, up from 15 in May 1986. Councilman Huntoon noted that residents of the Jefferson Road area were organizing a crime watch group that would also offer social events for neighbors to get to know one another.

Change Upsets Residents

Residents of the Mercer Street area spoke out at last week's Borough Council meeting, protesting a proposed speed limit change that would raise the limit to 35 m.p.h. between the Borough line and Edgehill Street.

The residents spoke out in response to the Traffic and Transportation Committee Report that suggested raising the speed limit to create a buffer zone between the 45 m.p.h. limit in the Township and the 25 m.p.h. limit in the Borough.

Robert Hall, 162 Mercer Street, spoke out adamantly against the change, "My children wait for the school bus one foot from the road at the corner of Mercer and Springdale." He described the houses as close together and near to the road, with narrow driveways that make entering the street difficult.

He and other speakers from the neighborhood agreed with the report's findings that most of the traffic already travels at least 10 m.p.h above the speed limit but like the other residents, he felt that raising the speed limit would give drivers license to travel even faster on a well populated stretch of the road.

"I'd leave it just the way it is and enforce it heavily," suggested a Hibben Street resident whose children have to walk to school on the busy road.

Cathy Bagley, an area resident, pointed out that her family and others use Mercer Street to walk to Marquand Park and the Battlefield noting that "the children are extenuating circumstances" defying the logic of increasing speed limits to create a buffer zone.

The protests came during a traffic and transportation committee report by chairman Abbot Low Moffat. Mr. Moffat discussed the findings of the committee stating, "We believe that you will get a safer traffic pattern with the buffering system." He explained the dangers of traffic traveling at 45 m.p.h. along the open country of the Battlefield and then suddenly reducing the speed to 25 m.p.h. He said that the 25 m.p.h. limit was largely ignored with the exception of those drivers who were aware of the frequent speed trap at Edgehill Street.

He carefully outlined the process of changing a speed limit, explaining that the Council can suggest a change to the state, which in turn evaluates the proposal and suggests a speed limit based on road conditions and the rate of speed of most of the traffic. He cautioned that the state often suggests higher speed limits citing the state's higher suggested limits for Elm Road and Chestnut Street. Once the state has proposed a speed limit, the town can accept it or keep the current legal limit.

Arch Davis, a traffic committee member supported the chairman and noted that drivers tailgate and try to pass cars that stay within the limit, creating more of a danger. He said that 80 to 90% of the drivers are going 40 m.p.h. or more on the section of road under debate already.

Colleen Hall, also of 162 Mercer Street, suggested that the speed limit be dropped in the Township, extending the buffer without raising limits in the more populated Borough end of the street.

Silver Flatware Is Stolen From Jefferson Home

Sterling silver flatware, silver bowls and other silver items were stolen during the weekend from a home on Jefferson Road. Police report that two drawers of a four-drawer cabinet in the dining room had been completely emptied.

The occupant told police when she left her home Saturday evening she had noticed a window was down in a first-floor storm window. At the time she felt the window might have slipped, but when she returned Sunday morning, a closer look revealed that someone had slipped the screen up and climbed through the unlocked window.

Between 2:30 Saturday afternoon and 7:30 Sunday morning, someone gained access to Trinity Chuch on Mercer Street but police say they aren't sure where because there were no signs of forced entry.

Once inside, the intruder pried open several office doors. Police report there were signs of a light ransacking of desk drawers and other doors had evidence of pry marks but there was no entry. Missing is approximately $8 in pennies. Damage was limited to doors and locks.

In another entry on Jefferson Road earlier in the week, a victim lost her purse containing $85.

At 8:30 last Wednesday morning, a jogger told the victim she had found her purse up the street and was returning it. When the victim then checked her house, she found that someone had cut a front screen to reach in and open a window to enter the dining room. The intruder took the purse and later discarded it on Jefferson Road, intact except for the money.

Burglar Flushed. Last Wednesday, the occupant of a Greenview Avenue home heard a noise downstairs around 10 p.m. He went downstairs to investigate, turning on lights from room to room but before he reached the kitchen, he was jumped from behind.

After some pushing and shoving, the occupant, who was not injured, managed to throw the suspect off his back. The suspect then ran out the kitchen door, the same unlocked door through which he had initially entered the house, police said.

The intruder is described as a white male in his late teens, six feet tall, 150 lbs., with brown straight hair, long at the back. He was wearing a dark T-shirt and dark trousers.

Closed July 4th

Princeton Public Library will be closed all day Friday and Saturday in recognition of Independence Day. Books and other print materials may be returned through the book drops outside the Library's main entrance whenever the building is closed.

Summer hours begin Monday. The Library will be open Mondays through Thursdays 9 to 9, Fridays 9 to 5:30 and Saturday 9 to 12:30.

$700 Visit. A Skillman woman, visiting on Dempsey Avenue last week, left her purse in the living room. The purse, containing $700, was discovered missing the next morning. Township police report there were no signs of forced entry into the home.

Between 8:15 Friday evening and 1:10 Saturday morning, someone unlocked a bedroom window screen to enter a home on Butler Avenue. Taken, police said, were items of jewelry valued at $380 and $80 in cash.

Earlier in the week, a thief cut a screen to enter an open window of a Walnut Lane home, departing with a television set. The theft was not discovered until the following morning.

Another Charge Lodged Against Burglary Suspect

A North Brunswick resident, charged with attempted burglary and aggravated assault, has also been charged by Township police with burglary and theft.

Taken to Mercer County Detention Center, where he is being held for Grand Jury action after his arraignment last week in Township court, is Andrew P. Fowler, 35, of Route 27.

Fowler was apprehended last Tuesday morning following an incident at a Mount Lucas Road home. As reported by Capt. Jack Petrone, the owner of the home was in his basement when he heard a knock on the door shortly after 11 a.m. He investigated, didn't see anybody, looked out some windows and, when he still didn't see anyone, returned to the basement, thinking it might have been a friend.

Soon after, the occupant heard another sound as if someone were trying to pry open the rear door of his house. Investigating again, he saw a tall, black male tampering with the rear door as he reached the kitchen.

He confronted the suspect and asked, "What are you doing?" With that, the suspect allegedly hurled a large stone at the home owner, smashing the glass in a storm door, before running off into the woods. The occupant called police and supplied a description of the suspect: athletically-built, black male, wearing a yellow tank T-shirt and long blue trousers.

Police responded and searched the area. A suspect wearing a yellow T-shirt and shorts was observed by Chief Anthony Pinelli who apprehended him in the area of Cherry Valley Road and Route 206. He was returned to the Mount Lucas Road residence where he was identified by the owner as the suspect at the rear door.

Two days later, on Thursday, a second Mount Lucas Road resident called police to report an entry into his home which he believed had occurred two days earlier. At the time, the intruder had broken a pane of glass in a rear door to gain entry, taking a watch and a ring valued at $600.

As a result of that call, police, Capt. Petrone said, conducted a field search of the area, looking for a pair of blue trousers. The trousers were found on property near the Mount Lucas Road home where the suspect had been confronted. In one of the pockets, police found the stolen watch.

Capt. Petrone commented that there is some doubt concerning a report the homeowner had frightened the suspect away by firing a gun at him.

"He is not answering any questions on the advice of his lawyer," Capt. Petrone said.

Four Youths Charged In Beer Theft Caper

Four 15-year-old Township juveniles have been charged with burglary and the theft of 13 cases of beer from the cellar of The Grotto Restaurant on Witherspoon Street.

The incident began about 12:40 Saturday morning when Det. Ralph Terracciano noticed a youth pushing a loaded shopping cart on Moore Street near Hawthorne Avenue. The officer stopped to investigate and found three cases of beer in the cart.

A subsequent search of the area uncovered a second cart

filled with three and a half cases of beer on Wiggins Street near Jefferson. Police left the cart and kept it under surveillance. A short time later, another youth, who, police said, had abandoned the cart and had been in hiding, returned, thinking the police had departed. He was taken into custody.

During a further search of the area, police found two more shopping carts filled with cases of beer in the vicinity of Wiggins near Humbert Street. They arrested two more suspects.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, the cellar door lock of the restaurant had been broken prior to the arrival of the four youths. "They didn't break it," he said." The youths then loaded their carts with cases of Heineken and Coors beer valued at approximately $200.

All have been charged with juvenile delinquency and turned over to Borough Juvenile Officer John Reading for processing.

At headquarters, police found a Sony Walkman radio in the possession of one of the youths. When a computer check revealed it had been stolen in South Portland, Maine, the youth was charged with possession of stolen property. That theft is still under investigation, Capt. Michaud said.

Other officers taking part in the arrests of the four youths were Sgt. William Clark, Ptl. Curtis Vanchoff, Ptl. Carol Raymond and Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel.

Three Cars Are Entered In Community Park Lots

Two parked cars were entered Sunday between 5 and 7:30 p.m. while they were parked at the Community Park North lot off Route 206. Police report both cars were locked but each had its windows partially open because of the heat. heat.

A Princeton Junction resident lost 15 cassette tapes valued at $155, and $100 in cash; a resident of Mount Holly reported the theft of $50 from her purse. She told police she did not notice that the money had been removed until she arrived home.

A Trenton resident listed the theft of a ring of keys valued at $15 from the glove compartment of her car while it was parked Sunday afternoon at the Community Park pool lot. Police said there was no forced entry into the car and nothing else was taken.

In the Borough, a Princeton University student listed the theft of her bookbag from a shelf next to the entryway of the Campus Club. Inside the missing bag, valued at $70, were $50 in cash, computer software and miscellaneous items. Total loss: $380.

An employee of a Chambers Street store joined the list of theft victims last week when someone removed her wallet containing $33 from her purse. The victim told police the theft took place when she had to leave the front of the store to go to a back room.

A telephone answering machine and a fan, worth a combined $123, were stolen last week from a small office space in 1901 Hall on the university campus. Police listed the victim as The Nassoons, a men's singing group.

Police last week received a report of a bicycle stolen overnight from a Madison Street driveway. The 16-year-old owner told police he had left his 3-speed bicycle, valued at $25, in the driveway and it was missing the following morning.

One Passenger Injured As Van, Truck Collide

A 16-year-old passenger was injured last week when a truck ran into the rear of a van operated by the N.J. Department of Correction's Training School for Boys. The incident occurred on Route 206, 600 feet from Cherry Hill Road.

The victim, Carlo Erazo of Patterson, was taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment of a back injury. At the time there were seven passengers in the van, one 17 years old, the rest all 16.

According to the police investigation by Ptl. Robert Buchanan, the van, operated by Charles H. O'Neal Jr., 25, of Trenton, was stopped in a line of traffic, waiting for cars turning left at the Cherry Hill light.

Thomas L. Pusey, 31, of Snow Hill, Md., traveling behind van, was unable to stop in time to avoid a rear collision. Mr. Pusey told the officer that he did not see the brake lights of the van flash prior to the accident and a check by Ptl.

Four-Day Closing

The Bakers Basin Motor Vehicle Agency on Route 1 in Lawrence Township will be closed for four days on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 1-4, for the installation of an upgraded computer system. The agency will reopen at 8 a.m. on Monday, July 6.

The improved computer system will allow for more efficient processing of motor vehicle work and will provide the foundation for the future expansion of services available at all field offices. This is part of a $2.2 million statewide program begun last year to improve all agency field computer equipment. The program will be completed this summer.

The agency closing will not effect the driver testing center or vehicle inspection station located at Bakers Basin. They will be open during their normal hours on Wednesday and Thursday. All DMV offices and field facilities will be closed on Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4, in observance of the 4th of July holiday.

Motorists who normally use the Bakers Basin agency to transact business are requested to use the Hamilton Township Agency, 541 Route 33 in Hamilton Square, or the Trenton Agency, 135 East State Street, during the period in July when the Bakers Basin agency will be closed.

Police Led to Suspect; Following Trail of Blood

A trail of blood helped lead police to a suspect wanted for acts of vandalism early Sunday morning at the Nassau Inn on Palmer Square.

The suspect, Thomas Wheeler, 22, of Verplanck, N.Y., agreed to make restitution but still faces a July 15 hearing in Borough Court, after a security officer at the Inn signed a complaint against him, charging Wheeler with criminal mischief.

Earlier, around 2 in the morning, police said, the security officer had heard a noise and a loud crash on the third floor of the Inn. Investigating, he observed three suspects leaving the area and found a glass-covered painting had been shattered and a hole punched in the dry-plaster wall.

He called police and supplied them with a description. In following the route the three had taken when leaving the building, he discovered a trail of blood.

A half-hour later, Sgt. William Clark saw three suspects matching the description at Nassau Street and Palmer Square. As he stopped to question them, he noticed one was bleeding from cuts on the knuckles of his right hand. The suspect (Wheeler) was identified by the security guard as one of the three men he had seen in the Inn. There were no charges against the other two.

Wheeler is said to have admitted to police why he committed the vandalism, but Capt. Thomas Michaud declined to reveal what that reason was.

Township Court. In Township court last week, Leon E. Gibson, 21 Juniper Row, was fined $275 and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for shoplifting in the Acme Market.

Fined for speeding were Gale D. Downey, 284 Wargo Road, Pennington, and Susanne Rose, 635 Hillsboro Road, Belle Mead, both $65, and Elizabeth Greber, 466 Cranbury Road, Cranbury, $85. Jean F. Cochrane, 12 Nassau Court, paid $65 for failing to keep right and $65 for leaving the scene of an accident.

Business Sign Ordinance Due for Consideration

The long-awaited proposed ordinance governing business signs in the Township will be discussed by the Planning Board at its regular meeting on Tuesday. The board meets at 7:30 in the Valley Road meeting room. The sign ordinance is scheduled for early in the meeting.

An ad hoc sign committee chaired by Committeeman Thomas Poole deliberated many months on how to amend the present, rather restrictive, regulations governing signs in the Township while preserving good taste and appearance. The ordinance this committee prepared has been reviewed and endorsed by the Planning Board's zoning amendment review committee (ZARC), "because of its flexible structure and its incentive for good design."

Essentially, the ordinance permits applicants to choose from one of three categories. The first is an "as-of-right" category, which allows applicants great discretion in content, color, and design but keeps the signs small — typically a maximum of two square feet.

The next is the "restricted" category, which permits signs that are substantially larger (typically eight square feet for a free-standing sign) in exchange for specific limitations as to context, color and illumination.

The third category would permit the largest size signs (up to 24 square feet in certain zones), provided the applicant conforms to the most stringent design and content limitations and full review of the Site Plan Review Advisory Board. It is called the "design review" category.

trichloroethene, were at levels such that the wells "should not be used for puhlic potahle purposes if more acceptahle quality water is available."

The DEP order was contained in a July 1, 1986, letter to the management of the Holiday Inn, which had given over operation of the wells when it sold the Millstone apartments to Princeton University on June 12. A December 23 DEP letter to Princeton reiterated the requirements of the original letter, and on December 29 the University informed the DEP that it would ask Elizabethtown to provide service to the Millstone apartments and the Holiday Inn. That request was made on January 8, 1987.

There are 120 units in the Millstone complex. Eight of these contain two bedrooms; the remainder are single-bedroom or efficiency units.

University Will Buy Water For Millstone Apartments

Princeton University has contracted with Elizabethtown Water Co. to provide water to the Millstone River Apartments owned by the University on Route 1 in Plainsboro. Elizabethtown anticipates making the service connection by the end of the year.

This action is taken in response to findings by the state Department of Environmental Protection that the well water currently in use at these units contains levels of contaminants that could pose health risks with prolonged exposure.

Based on samples taken May 21, 1986, at wells supplying both the Millstone apartments and the adjacent Holiday Inn, the DEP ordered that a method of treatment or an alternative source of water be developed by July 1, 1987. The samples showed that two contaminants, tetrachloroethene and

The first alumnus to serve as president, Dr. Fuller earned a bachelor's degree in choral conducting at Westminster in 1950. He holds a master's degree in music education from North Texas State University and a doctor of education degree from Indiana University.

His most recent post was director of facilities planning and capital budgeting with the Connecticut Department of Higher Education. Other positions he has held include executive director of the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education, director of the New York City Regional Plan for Higher Education, and assistant commissioner for Postsecondary Planning Services for the New York State Education Department.

Dr. Fuller has served on 15 statewide boards and commissions and has consulted with 21 institutions on long-range and physical planning over the past 20 years. Swimathon Proceeds To Aid Special Van Fund

The 12th annual Swimathon held by Montgomery Township's First Aid Squad will be dedicated this year to fund raising for the Bob Hoedemaker Fund.

The fund has been set up to give Mr. Hoedemaker a van with an automatic wheelchair lift. Long active in community activities, Mr. Hoedemaker is paralyzed following a freak accident playing handball over a year ago and needs a van to be able to leave his home to receive continuing therapy and medical attention. He was released from the Lawrenceville Rehabilitation Center last Saturday.

The Swimathon will be held the last week of July at the Lenape Swim Club on Route 518. Swimmers of all ages will compete with each other to see how many laps they can swim nonstop. Friends and supporters will be invited to sponsor the individual swimmers by pledging a sum of money for each lap completed.

The Cadet Corps of Montgomery's First Aid Squad will have pledge sheets for the public to sign at the July 2 picnic and fireworks program scheduled by Montgomery Township at the Burnt Hill Road schoolgrounds beginning at 4:30 p.m. A table for sign-ups will be located next to the refreshment booths. The contestants themselves will also be seeking pledges on their own up to the time of the event.

First Aid Cadet Debbie Lloyd, a college student and former swimmer, is coordinating the swimmers' sign-ups.

For further information, call Barbara Wear (359-4217).

Garbage Pick-Up Costs Questioned by Residents

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter we have sent to Township Mayor Gail Firestone.

A group of about 50 families in the Riverside area, on parts of Longview Drive, Lake Drive and Dogwood Lane, have their garbage collected through the municipality.

This is the result of a petition circulated about two years ago. We were assured at the time that this arrangement would be cheaper and more reliable than our private arrangements.

Last week we received our annual property tax bill, and the rate for garbage collection was raised from last year's 1.647% to 4.276%. In our case, our charge for garbage collection for the tax year starting August 1, 1987, will be $610.61.

The company employed by the township, National Waste Disposal, tells us that their rate for private collection is $263.88 per year for back-door pickup (which is now automatically provided). Can you explain why we are being asked by the township to pay more than twice as much for the same service from the same company?

In fact, we do not want back-door pickup, and take the cans to the road ourselves anyway. Curb pickup would cost us only $140.64 per year, so we are in effect paying more than four times as much as we need to for garbage collection.

Spend Additional Monies To Reduce Class Size

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is an open letter to Dr. Carol Choye, Superintendent, Princeton Regional Schools.

I am writing to express my strong and unqualified support for the proposal to spend additional monies to reduce class sizes in the Princeton Regional Schools. I understand that this issue will be decided soon by the administration and school board, and I hope that you will actively and forcefully support significant reductions in class size.

As a parent of an incoming kindergartener, as well as of a younger child, and as one deeply committed to the concept of public schools, I clearly have a vested interest in maximizing the quality of education available to our children.

Beyond that, however, I believe that every member of our community — with or without children, whether or not personally committed to the principle of public education — has an equally strong and personal interest in the quality of that education. This is for the obvious, but not therefore less compelling, reason that the children who have been nurtured and guided by that education are our community, and collectively they determine the quality of life for us all.

I am aware of the argument that research has failed to demonstrate what the optimum class size may be, and that therefore there is no 'proof' that reducing class size will improve education. That research on such a complex issue has not yielded a determinate answer should not be surprising; but there is a role for common sense to play here as well! One would, I suspect, get little disagreement that class size should be not less than, say, 7, nor more than 20 at any grade level, if the highest quality of education is to be achieved, with relatively lower numbers in the younger grades.

None of this, of course, is meant to denigrate the impact of other, enormously important factors in the educational milieu — chief among these being the teachers themselves. But it is class size which is at issue now. The opportunity for change, for significant and needed improvement, is at hand. Therefore I urge you again to support the reduction of class size at all grade levels. our community, parents and non-parents alike, will thank you for it — now, and in the future.

"Davidson's Way" Road Is Already a Disaster

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Messrs. Steve Slaby and Alain Kornhauser suggested the name "Disaster Alley" for the proposed new street from Davidson's parking area to Olden Street in a letter in TOWN TOPICS, June 24th issue.

They are off by a few hundred feet. "Disaster Alley" is the proper name for the existing section of University owned-roadway which both WaWa and Davidson's now use and which now the Borough takes responsibility for. That roadway, inadvertently dubbed "Davidson's Way" is already a disaster.

As reported in the 24th June issue of the TOPICS, the present dead-end two-way street is the first stage of a development to provide a circular flow through the area. To make a circle, one needs the lines to meet. Surely, your correspondents are not suggesting a tunnel to get back to Nassau Street.

The only way is the surface street as proposed in 1959. If the University has put library and equipment in buildings fronting on a roadway it proposed, as it has, would it not be simpler to move those installations if that roadway becomes a nuisance? After all, growth occurs in all areas of society, not only in our personal area of interest.

With all respect to old trees, a new street will be built to complete the traffic and parking plan for the area. To do otherwise, would be to risk "Davidson's Way" becoming "Folly Alley."

Widen Nassau Street By Maple, Chestnut

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Something has to happen on Nassau Street between Maple and Chestnut.

One hardly can pass with all the delivering trucks, so many new businesses on the right side, and Davidson's moving into Volvo Garage. Nassau Street should be widened and it could be done on the left side coming from Linden Lane.

I hope residents of this part of Princeton will join me and support my suggestion in writing letters to the editor.

Developments Threaten Windsor's Quality of Life

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Proposed developments along Bear Brook Road and off of Village Road West threaten thousands of units of high density housing, a significant percentage of which is Mount Laurel housing. These massive developments endanger the quality of life in West Windsor.

Our roads can't support any more traffic; our schools are experiencing gridlock in the classrooms and corridors; environmentally sensitive areas are under attack; and the resources of our volunteer firefrighters and rescue squad will be severely strained. It's time to say enough!

The Township Committee and the Planning Board must immediately initiate tough, hard negotiations with the developers of the projects to reduce densities. West Windsor is, in good faith, meeting its Mount Laurel obligation. There is no reason, economic or otherwise, why developers would not be willing to reduce densities in exchange for less dense market price houses.

Litigation, if necessary, should not be ruled out. We simply cannot continue to permit development of these massive housing (and commercial) projects while naively assuming that we have the unlimited capacity to absorb the increased traffic, polution, population and service demands that go along with it. In addition, the Township must immediately consider downzoning in other areas of the Township to reduce development densities.

Strong, decisive leadership of our Township officials is required to prevent a catastrophe that will affect West Windsor now and for years to come

Grandparenting Class Set At the Medical Center

"Grandparenting in the 80's," a look at the changing relationships between generations, is the topic of a new class at Princeton Medical Center. The first session will be Saturday, July 18, from 3:30 to 5 in the hospital's private dining room.

The class will explore the changes that have occurred in grandparenting and the grandparent-child relationship since the participants were children. Changes in the philosophy of childbearing and child rearing will be discussed along with such current topics as breastfeeding, bonding, "natural" childbirth, infant stimulation and car seats.

Prospective grandparents will be given a tour of the Medical Center's nursery, maternity and labor and delivery areas.

In addition, each participant will receive a special "Keepsake" which can be personalized for the new grandchild.

For additional information call 734-4570 (Pathways through Parenthood).

Tennis Classic Scheduled By Watersheds Ass'n.

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will hold its first annual Tennis Classic Saturday, July 18, at Princeton Day School. The finals, along with an informal barbeque, will take place at the Association's own "Centre Court" on its nature reserve in Pennington.

Princeton native Sam McCleery — just back from Wimbledon — will be the official presiding over the finals.

All levels of play are encouraged to enter the round-robin, mixed doubles tournament, and the proceeds will benefit the Watershed's environmental advocacy and education programs. Entry fee is $10 per person. Reservations for the barbeque are separate, and all tennis and nature fans are welcome.

For reservations, call the Watershed Association at 737-3735.

Applications Accepted For After School Care

Applications are being accepted for the YWCA's After School Program for the 1987-1988 school year.

This coming season, the program for children in grades K-8, will have sites in the YWCA and in the Community Park and Riverside Schools. In Lawrenceville, the YWCA will offer program sites at the Lawrence Elementary, Ben Franklin and Slackwood Schools. The Lawrence Intermediate students will meet at the Lawrence Elementary school.

The After School Program hours are week-days from 3-5 and 8-5:30 on most school holidays. When schools are dismissed after a half day, the After School Program will be in operation from school dismissal until 5:30 p.m.

The program offers academic enrichment, creative play periods, movies, multi-media arts and crafts, field and gym sports, and snacks supervised by the Department of Education Child Care Food Program. The Princeton students will have an opportunity to use the YWCA facilities for weekly swim and gym programs.

Lawrenceville students have regular programs at the Lawrenceville Library and a cooperative intergenerational program with the Lawrenceville Nursing Home. All groups have opportunities for field trips and to participate in special enrichment programs.

Transportation, when necessary, will be provided at no additional cost. Part-time students will be accepted on a space available basis. There are a limited number of scholarships for those who qualify.

The cost per child is $155 monthly in Princeton, $150 in Lawrenceville, $40 weekly in both communities and $10 daily for regular days. There are discounts for siblings.

In addition to the regular program, the YWCA offers a special kindergarten service during the kindergarten phase-in period at an additional cost of $25 weekly.

A $25 non-refundable registration fee is required with all applications. For further information, call Lois Altschul, director, 924-5571.

Heavy Traffic Expected

More than 2.6 million vehicles of all types are expected to travel the New Jersey Turnpike during the five-day Fourth of July holiday weekend beginning Thursday.

Turnpike and State Police personnel have been advised of the anticipated high traffic volume and instructed to be particularly on the alert for drivers who appear to be fatigued or under the influence of alcohol or narcotics.

The Turnpike's 13 service areas will be open around the clock with increased numbers of service station and restaurant workers to meet the fuel and food needs of travelers during the peak periods.

Motorists with disabled vehicles or other problems are urged to stay with their vehicles until a trooper arrives. Turnpike officials note this expedites the process of getting appropriate emergency services to the scene.

CBD Changes

nent opening of the E.M. Lodge Joy company in the space occupied for so long by the Cummins Shop.

Around the corner, the building at 17 Witherspoon Street, in which the Princeton Clothing Co. is located, is for sale for $890,000. Berit Marshall of Peyton Associates reports "a great deal of interest." The building is owned by a Princeton area investor who has decided to sell because travel commitments make it difficult for him to attend to the building as he would like to, according to Todd Peyton.

Down the Street. Across the way, and down Witherspoon Street, Arjay Realty, which purchased the Griggs Amoco Station, has filed an application with the Planning Board to convert the gas station and the furrier in the same building to a convenience food store. The gas pumps would be removed, according to the plans, and the space used for a landscaped parking area.

Next door, at 74 Witherspoon Street, the Toto's Market building is being spruced up by owner Albert Toto in anticipation of The Brass Horn occupying the market which he closed in mid-June after 75 years of continuous, family-owned operation. Mr. Toto originally was offering the building for sale but later decided to keep it as an investment.

Back on Nassau Street, across from the new Davidson's, the E.R. Keller Co., which bought Frenchy's Garage and moved a Victorian house across the street in order to save it from demolition, will soon be deciding how to use the two buildings. The property was originally conceived for bank use, and, according to Mr. McCabe, several banks have expressed interest.

However, the E.R. Keller Co. may want to start its own bank there, or it may take advantage of the increased traffic generated by the Davidson's store and put retail in the house and a drive-in bank in the stone garage.

Nassau Street, the oldest thoroughfare in town, continues to change and evolve.

—Barbara L. Johnson

'Summer Yesterdays' Focus of New Exhibit

The Historical Society's new exhibition, "Summer Yesterdays," is now open to the public at Bainbridge House.

The Society's costume committee has spent the winter preparing a glimpse of Princeton past. Evelyn Hackley and fellow committee members Jane Detwiler, Frances Edeburn, and Helena Wolfe, assisted by Sarah Bond, Elisabeth Evans, and Dorothy Reilly, have mounted an exhibition of costumes and objects from the mid-19th century through the early 20th century. They have been guided by costume historian Elizabeth Brown, a charter member of the Costume Institute of the United States.

Exhibition artists Nancy Frank and Maybel Nutt have created murals which provide an appropriate setting for a front porch tea party, a Princeton promenade with youngsters in best bib and tucker, a picnic by the lake, and a dandy or two in duster and goggles.

The costumes, displayed on mannequins loaned by the Monmouth Museum, are from the Society's ever-growing collection, with special additions on loan from private collectors in the Princeton area.

"Summer Yesterdays" may be seen at Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau Street, from noon to 4. For further information call the Society at 921-6748.

Science Teachers Study At Princeton University

Twenty-five elementary science teachers from four area school districts will participate in a pilot enrichment program at Princeton University under the sponsorship of the Squibb Corporation.

Teachers from Hopewell, Lawrence, Princeton, and Trenton will attend the three-week workshop, which began this week and will be funded through a $70,000 grant from Squibb. The program, called Project BEST (Better Elementary Science Teaching), will offer teachers exposure to current research in the fields of biology and geology and will feature field trips to the areas around the teachers' individual schools to identify elements of the natural environment that might be useful in their teaching.

Princeton professors Henry Horn in biology, Sheldon Judson in geology and William Bonini in geophysics will provide instruction.

Participating science teachers were nominated by principals from Hopewell Elementary School and Toll Gate Grammar School in Hopewell; Benjamin Franklin School, Lawrence Intermediate School, and Slackwood School in Lawrence; Community Park School and Riverside School in Princeton; and Gregory School and Washington School in Trenton.

The Montgomery United Methodist Church and Blawenburg Reformed Church will jointly sponsor a one-week Vacation Bible School August 10-15. The registration deadline is July 15.

The school will emphasize service to one's family and community and will include games, songs and crafts. It will be held at the Montgomery United Methodist Church, 117 Sunset Road, and will meet each morning from 9:30 to noon. Children age three through sixth grade are invited. Older youth are welcome to participate as aides or helpers.

Evelyn Cochran, who has led vacation bible schools at the Blawenburg Church, will direct. Kathy Powell and Candy Dalbey of the Methodist Church will assist her. Karen VanZandt will lead the daily song and worship times, while Joanna Oldaker will lead the craft program.

Activities for older children will be offered in a tent canopy apart from the younger ones. An evening celebration for parents will be held Thursday, August 14, at 7 and will include making do-it-yourself ice cream sundaes. A free will offering will be taken to help meet operating expenses.

To register, call Mrs. Cochran, 466-3196, or the Montgomery United Methodist Church, 359-6986, before July 15.

Bulletin Notes

The Rev. David H.C. Read of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City will be the guest preacher Sunday at 10 at the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon topic will be "Clean Religion."

He was a prisoner of war in Germany for five years during World War II and held pastorates in Scotland before coming to this country in 1956.

He has served the Madison Avenue church for 31 years and is the author of a dozen books, including his recent two-volume autobiography, This Grace Given and Grace Thus Far.

Garbage

Previously, the Township had five small garbage districts, which were close to the Borough border. The Township negotiates a contract for backdoor or curbside pick-up for each of these districts, and residents are charged based on the assessed valuation of their property.

Having just received the new tax bill, residents in these new districts discovered that the garbage collection rate has gone from 1.647 to 4.267 percent. Garbage charges that were $200 have increased to $600, and in one case to $1000. Many have called up private haulers to inquire about the rate for individual pick-up.

The rate these companies, including National Waste, are quoting is far less for back-door pick-up than what the Township is charging, and still less for curbside pick-up (see Mailbox). Irate residents have been calling the tax assessor, the township administrator, the mayor and the engineer to protest.

Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser says he and Administrator James J. Pascale have been "researching" the situation. Knowing that the tipping fees at GROWS landfill have gone up 350 percent from May, 1984, to July, 1986, from $3.57 to $16 a cubic yard, Mr. Kiser suspects that the price the haulers are quoting residents for individual pick-up may not reflect the increase that these companies will have to pass on to customers in order to keep up with increases in tipping costs.

He thinks that some of them may have rate increase petitions pending before the Board of Public Utilities, and that the rates quoted may be "artificially low" pending a hearing. Mr. Pascale is also checking with the BPU to see whether or not there are rate increase petitions pending.

However, if it turns out that the individual rates are not an "aberration," as Mr. Pascale puts it, he and Mr. Kiser are recommending that Township Committee consider new guidelines for a district to opt out of municipal collection, much as they "opted in" two years ago. The new contract that Mr. Kiser is presently putting together for bid for municipal collection will contain such a provision. The present contract, which expires July 31, provides for the ability to add new districts but not to dissolve them.

The garbage rate is figured on the Township's projections of what garbage collection will cost from August 1 to July 31 the following year. Last year, because of the unanticipated rate of increase in the tipping fees and a pass-through provision in the contract with National Waste, the Township was short $25,000 for municipal collection. This amount has to be made up, and accounts for some of the increase the residents are seeing in their tax bills.

A 25 percent increase contingency has been built into the projection for the coming year, which is also reflected in the new rate. Mr. Kiser said the Township has already rejected two bids for municipal collection. One was "abnormally high," he said, and the other was insufficiently bonded. Thus he is presently working on new specifications for the next contract term, which will be for 17 months rather than a year, to bring it in line with the calendar year basis on which the rest of the municipal budget and the tax rate is figured.

The rate a company charges the homeowner for individual collection is on a per pick-up basis, whereas the municipal charge is assessed according to property valuation, as stipulated by state law. Other municipal charges are also based on assessed valuation but become "buried" in the total tax bill, Mr. Pascale points out.

As a single assessed service, garbage collection then becomes highly visible. Differences in assessed valuation account for the differences between one resident's charge and another.

New Jersey Bell Puts Technology To Work.
By Cy Collins
External Affairs Manager

Last year, New Jersey Bell spent over $1.6 million a day to improve and expand its statewide telecommunications network, and with good reason.

That money helps keep New Jersey Bell's phone rates the lowest in the country. By investing in new technology we gain efficiencies that we may pass on to our customers.

What's more, new technology helps us provide new and better services for you.

Centrex III, our premier business communications system is one of those services. It has all the innovative features any business might need, like automatic callback, call transfer and call pick-up. And, it's a flexible system. When your office layout or communications needs change, the phone system can easily be changed right from the telephone in your office. There's no need to purchase, house and maintain system hardware in your building. Instead, the "brains" of Centrex III are located in our local switching centers. That gives our customers a big savings in cost along with added convenience...and there's no capital outlay for an expensive PBX.

We've now spun off a high-tech variation of Centrex III called Community Centrex.

Community Centrex brings residential and business tenants in large, modern buildings a choice of state-of-the-art telecommunications services. The developer or owner installs the system capability into the building and the tenants can select those phone services they want from a long menu of offerings.

For instance, there's abbreviated dialing and other standard Centrex services that tenants can subscribe to. And, there are special phone services like call forwarding, call waiting and distinctive ringing. Speed calling of up to six frequently called numbers is also available, as are security features.

Another example of New Jersey Bell technology helping business and consumers is Public Data Network (PDN). PDN provides inexpensive access to data bases over regular phone lines.

PDN already has helped bring the speed and power of computers to real estate agents. In Morris County, PDN has enabled the Board of Realtors to automate its multiple listings so that individual agents can find your "dream house" at the touch of a button.

Agents can search the listings using 28 different criteria – like price, lot dimension, school system, type of heating and style of home. It can even compute mortgage rates and related financial information.

Unlike weekly real estate catalogs that are often out of date when published, this data is always current.

Without PDN, this kind of computerized quick access system would probably be too costly for the county board and local agents. With PDN, costs are kept down and agents can enjoy this timesaving and convenient service that helps them serve their customers better and faster.

Next time you read about a "high-tech" service from New Jersey Bell, be assured that it will bring you the best communications at the lowest possible cost.

OBITUARIES

Robina Gallup, wife of Alec Gallup of Montgomery Township, was killed June 27 in northern Scotland when a passenger train struck her Ford Fiesta as the car crossed the tracks. Mrs. Gallup was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, which occurred in Halkirk, Scotland.

No one aboard the British Rail train was injured, according to police sources in nearby Thurso, Scotland. Scottish officials are investigating the accident. Mrs. Gallup was in Scotland visiting her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. T.H. Grainger of Cirencester, Gloucestershire. Her husband had returned home after the couple attended the 50th anniversary of the Gallup affiliate organizations at the House of Commons in London.

Mrs. Gallup was born in England, daughter also of the late Peter W. Mould, a Royal Air Force pilot killed during World War II. She graduated from Kings College and the London School of Economics before coming to Princeton during the early 1960s as a research assistant at the Institute for Advanced Study.

An accomplished tennis player, she was a former coach of the boys' junior varsity tennis team at Princeton Day School. Following the death of her father-in-law, George Gallup, she had managed the Gallup Farm on Mountain View Road. She was also involved in residential and commercial real estate development.

Mrs. Gallup was a member of the board of the Blairstown Education Center and, at the time of her death, was helping to organize "The Festival of Trees," a benefit for the summer camp. The event, scheduled for December, was to raise money for children from low-income families to attend the camp.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons and a daughter by her previous marriage to Harold L. Ross Jr. of Princeton. They are Peter S. Ross, Brian A. Ross and Jennifer K. Ross.

Funeral arrangements were not complete at press time.

Therese Critchlow Is Retiring from the Public Library After 23 Years in Charge of the Audio-Visual Collection

With the coming of computerization and a surge in information technology, the Princeton Public Library is entering a new era.

It is an era that, in time, will be as radically different from the present as the "new" library building, constructed in 1965, was from the "old" Public Library in Bainbridge House. Therese Critchlow, who began working at the Public Library in 1964 while it was still located in Bainbridge House, feels it is a good time for her to retire.

Having begun at about the same time Director Robert Staples arrived, she leaves as he leaves. Having been particularly active in the reference, audio-visual and outreach aspects of the library, she departs as the library prepares for computerization of some of these activities.

Therese Critchlow

Miss Critchlow was born in Princeton and has lived here most of her life. Her father was a professor of Romance Languages at Princeton University, and she remembers being taken by him to Firestone Library and exploring it with her brother and sister. She remembers the reference room in particular, with its statues of different sages, and the desk of the director as "on a sort of throne."

"I liked the atmosphere, and the nice scent of old books permeating the room," Miss Critchlow recalls. However, not until after she had taught French at the secondary and college level and had worked for non-profit organizations in New York City, did library work as a career occur to her. It was Ann Kenny, the mathematics and physics librarian in the old Fine Hall who suggested she become a librarian.

'Sleuthing for Answers.' Miss Critchlow earned her master's of library science at Rutgers and worked as a reference librarian at Firestone for three years. "I enjoy sleuthing for answers, helping people put pieces of information together quickly," she says.

In 1964 Margaretta Barr, Mr. Staples' predecessor, asked her to join the tiny staff at the Public Library. "She told me it would be an exciting time, that the Friends of the Princeton Public Library were alerting the community to the need for a new building, and I thought I would like to be in on the ground floor," Miss Critchlow recalls.

Ground for the new library was broken in a former parking lot at the corner of Wiggins and Witherspoon streets in June, 1965. The library officially opened December 5, 1966. Miss Critchlow says she often forgets dates, but that one she remembers.

She began as assistant to the reference librarian with responsibility for the audio-visual collection. Before the move to the new building, that collection was limited to circulating about two dozen 16mm films a month through membership in the New Jersey Library Film Circuit.

There was a hand-cranked machine in the basement with which she would inspect the films for damage, but no projector, and no place to show films. All that changed dramatically in the new building, where there are regular showings of films for adults and children in the spacious, second-floor auditorium. The big thing nowadays is video cassettes; the library has four VCRs for loan and a collection of 165 video cassettes.

Miss Critchlow also built up the adult audio-cassette collection. Today the new thing is "talking books," she says, which people plug into while driving to work or jogging.

Moving to the new building provided the space for a greatly enlarged reference collection. Among other materials, the Friends helped the library purchase sections of the New York Times on microfilm. To-

Murray Theater Opens With Comedy 'Noises Off'

Princeton Summer Theatre opens its 17th season with the boistrous comedy Noises Off by Michael Frayn. Patterned in the classical farce form, Noises Off portrays the unseen side of theatrical performances, using the rehearsals and production of a fictitious play, Nothing On, as its plot line. The eight actors in Nosies Off assume the characters of director, stage manager, technician, and company of Nothing On. Their romantic and temperamental interactions "backstage" as well as on create a hilarity seldom seen by the audience.

Act I of Noises Off opens in the middle of the dress rehearsal the night before Nothing On is scheduled to begin. Actors do not know their lines, set pieces do not work, and the director reaches his wits end in an attempt to get them ready. In Act II the entire stage is reversed and the action takes place backstage at a matinee of Nothing On one month later.

While the actors continue an unseen performance on the "stage," the upheaval of rocky personal relationships becomes uproariously funny as a backstage frenzy ensues. The actors are as busy trying to kill each other as they are putting on their play.

The situation is heightened in Act III when the stage returns to the set of Nothing On two months later and the audience knows what must be occurring "backstage" as actors stumble on and off covering for the string of "accidental" mishaps.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? David Zabel and Debbie Johnson appear in Princeton Summer Theatre's production of "Noises Off" opening this week. The farce by Michael Frayn is directed by David Ganon. Performances are Thursday through Sunday at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. The Sunday show is at 4:30, all others are at 8.

The production will be directed by David Ganon who staged Starting Here, Starting Now at Princeton Summer Theatre in 1985. Mr. Ganon attended Yale Drama School and is now the curator of a collection of rare American plays in New York City. The cast of Noises Off includes Princeton alumni, students, and local talent.

Michael Frayn is a well-known British playwright, but also enjoys a successful career as a novelist, columnist, and translator. As a writer for both stage and screen, Mr. Frayn has received numerous awards, including The National Press Award in Britain. A noted translator of the works of Chekhov, he was most recently represented on Broadway by the Adaptation of Wild Honey which opened last fall

Noises Off will be presented in the newly renovated, air-conditioned Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. The show will run Thursday through Sunday, July 2-5 and Thursday through Sunday, July 9-12. Thursday, Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 and Sunday twilight shows are at 4:30.

Tickets are $6.50 Thursday and Sunday and $8 Friday and Saturday. Subscriptions are available; four-seat vouchers are $21 for a Thursday or Sunday series and $26 for a Friday or Saturday series.

Reservations may be made by calling the box office at 452-4950. The box office is open from 11 to 6 Tuesday through Saturday and from 1 to 4 on Sundays.

Musical Revue Readied By Stage One Productions

Stage One Productions will continue its 1987 summer season at the Rider College Fine Arts Theater with the Maltby and Shire musical, Starting Here, Starting Now. The revue opens on Thursday, July 9, and continues for three weekends through July 26. For reservations, call 683-0444.

Starting Here, Starting Now looks at love and the urban life style with songs and sketches in a cabaret-style production. Brent Monahan, who directed A ... My Name Is Alice for Stage One last year, returns to direct and perform in this production. Frank Arment will serve as assistant director. Also featured in the cast are Rick Bossman, Sharon Alexander and Ann Lorraine Knight.

Mr. Bossman is known to area theater goers for his lead singing roles in Camelot, Godspell, The Fantasticks, Side by Side by Sondheim, and other musicals. He has also sung in nightclubs in Philadelphia and at Resorts International in Atlantic City. This will be his first appearance with Stage One.

Another Stage One newcomer is Sharon Alexander, whose soprano voice has been heard by audiences at the Off-Broadstreet Theater in Hopewell, the Bucks County Playhouse, Foundation Theatre, and at dinner theatres throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Ms. Knight has spent the last two years acting with Princeton's Creative Theatre. A music education graduate of Immaculata College, she has played a number of featured musical roles for theater companies in Hawaii, Virginia, Maryland, Ohio and New York.

Mr. Monahan holds B.A. and M.A. degrees in music from Rutgers University and a doctorate in music arts from Indiana University, Bloomington. He has directed and sung for numerous area theatre groups, including Stage One, PJ&B, and Princeton Community Players.

Tickets are $8 on Thursdays and Sundays, and $10 for Friday and Saturday evenings. Sunday performances are at 3 p.m. All other performances are at 8.

A special opening-night ticket price of $6 is available for one performance only, Thursday, July 9. For further information, call Stage One Productions at 683-0444.

THE PALMOLIVE LADY: Jan Miner, "Madge" in the Palmolive TV commercials, will appear in the musical, "Peg O' My Heart," to be performed at McCarter Theatre by the American Stage Festival company July 9-12.

McCarter Summer Season Features Musical Premiere

McCarter Theatre's inaugural summer season begins with the United States premiere of Peg O' My Heart — The Musical, July 9-18, presented by the American State Festival. The company will be coming to McCarter after a two-week run at its home base in Milford, N.H.

Ann Morrison, star of the London production of the play, will repeat her lead role as Peg O'Connell, the strong and spirited Irish-American lass who unwittingly places British pretense and artifice at her mercy. The play harks back to the original script by playwright J. Hartley Manners, written in 1912 as a valentine — a marriage proposal — for Laurette Taylor. She made the play famous and performed the part of Peg, an 18-year-old girl, well into her thirties.

Miss Morrison is joined by Jan Miner, veteran actress and "Madge" in the Palmolive TV commercials, and George Ede, who has appeared on Broadway with Claudette Colbert and Rex Harrison in Aren't We All? He also appeared at McCarter as the Stage Manager in Our Town in the fall of 1986.

Tickets are available for $14 and up by calling 683-8000.

'I Love My Wife' Opens At Off-Broadstreet Theatre

The musical I Love My Wife, about an attempted escape into the sexual revolution, opens Friday at the Off-Broadstreet Dessert Theatre in Hopewell.

The show with music by Cy Coleman ran on Broadway in 1977. Musical direction, piano and vocals are by Mark McGee, a newcomer to the Off-Broadstreet Theatre staff. Mr. McGee has appeared throughout the state with such groups as Westfield Community Players, Playhouse 22 and the Stagecrafters of South River.

Bob Gargiullo, James Jarvey and Robert Thick make up "the hand," which remains on stage playing, singing and moving furniture.

The two couples temporarily tempted by a magazine article about "today's society" include Jill Slagada and Richard Chibbaro and Tony Smith and Lisa Mosso.

The show will run weekends through August 8, including a performance Saturday, July 4.

Performances are Fridays through Sundays through August 8. Friday and Saturday evenings doors open at 7 for dessert with curtain at 8 p.m. Sunday afternoon doors open at 1:30 p.m. for dessert with curtain at 2:30 p.m.

Admission Friday and Sunday is $13.75, Saturday $15. Ticket price includes both dessert and show. For reservations or further information contact the Off-Broadstreet Theatre at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, phone 466-2766.

Mistress Mary, a children's play based on the Mother Goose nursery rhyme "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" will be presented at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre Friday and Saturday, July 10 and 11.

Mary anxiously awaits her father's arrival from a trip abroad. She has been taught to recognize the seasons and expect his appearance by knowing which flowers are in bloom.

The show is planned for young theater goers aged 2½-11. It is a continuation of the current Children's Classic Series headed by Mary White of Princeton.

Performances are Friday, July 10, at 10 and Saturday, July 11, at 10:30 and 1. Admission is $3.50 with group rates available. For reservations or more information contact the Off-Broadstreet Theatre at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, phone 466-2766.

this Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30.

Widely regarded as Fellini's masterpiece, and the film that marked the director as one of the century's master cinema artists, La Dolce Vita is Fellini's savage, nightmarish vision of modern Rome — cold, decadent, cruel and dehumanizing, a world geared to destroy all vestiges of human sensitivity.

The film opens with helicopters towing the statue of Christ over the city, as the flashbulb-popping papparazzi swarm to scenes of horror and agony, fighting with one another for the best vantage point from which to photograph the misery. Marcello Mastroianni plays a jaded journalist on an odyssey in search of himself amidst the decadent beauties of Rome's upper classes.

Mastroianni drifts aimlessly through the landscape trying to find some kind of inner fulfillment, and each episode dramatizes both his lack of conviction and the abnegation of responsibility by an important institution or class of people. The supporting cast includes Yvonne Furneaux, Anouk Aimee and Anita Ekberg.

The Independence Day weekend double bill, Friday through Sunday, will pair David Lynch's Blue Velvet at 7:30, with Martin Scorsese's After Hours at 9:30 p.m. In Blue Velvet, director Lynch portrays a strange, repellent and seductive world in which everybody is somebody's victim.

In the fictional town of Lumberton, young Jeffrey (Kyle MacLachaln) discovers a severed ear, takes it to a detective, and becomes consumed in a mystery that leads him into a violent and erotic world. Aided by the detective's daughter (Laura Dern), Jeffrey tracks down a torch singer (Isabella Rossellini) who, in turn, draws him into voyeurism, sadomasochism and the unexplored dark side of his own character.

After Hours is Martin Scorsese's poison valentine to New York City, a comedy which presents evening romance in the city as a nightmarish journey through hell. Griffin Dunne stars as Paul, a bored bachelor who accepts an invitation from Rosanna Arquette to visit a friend's loft in SoHo.

His evening downtown becomes a forced initiation into the ridiculous, the perverse and the bizarre, and comes complete with suicide, burglaries, a murder and a roving band of vigilantes. Unable to get home to his apartment on 91st Street, Paul encounters a menagerie of quirky, obsessive characters including a lovelorn waitress (Teri Garr), a blond ice cream vendor (Catherine O'Hara) and a kinky sculptress who involves him in S&M and a narrow escape from his own death.

Single admission to each double feature is $3.75 at the door. Films are shown at Kresge Auditoirum on Washington Road. Parking is available on Williams Street. For more information or to receive a brochure call 683-8000.

A Sparse but Enthusiastic Audience Enjoys June Opera Festival's Vocal Works Concert

Last Thursday evening three rarely heard works were presented in an Evening of Dramatic Scenes for Solo Voice, a one-night concert performance as part of the June Opera Festival. A sparse but very enthusiastic audience came to The Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School to hear Haydn's solo cantata, Arianna a Naxos, sung by mezzo-soprano Genie Grunewald, Milton Babbitt's Philomel, with soprano Judith Bettina, and Peter Maxwell Davies' Eight Songs for a Mad King, featuring baritone Donald Bell.

Each of these is a virtuoso work requiring both superb technique and extraordinary expressiveness, musically as well as dramatically. The latter two pieces in particular demand musicianship of the highest order and some very unusual vocal practices.

Some interesting connections can be drawn among these three works, and between them and the first of the operas, reviewed here last week. Most obviously, the story of Arianna parallels that of the second act of Strauss' Ariadne on Naxos, though it approaches the story from a different angle. Arianna and Philomel both have their origins in ancient Mediterranean mythology. Nightingales also provide a link, however tenuous, between Philomel and the songs by Davies.

Ms. Grunewald proved to be an exquisitely communicative singer. Her comfortable stage presence and crystal clear diction gave her performance immediate accessibility, even to one who knows little of the Italian language. Dramatic gestures clarified the story's action both with subtlety and directness. The singer's emotional gamut ran from longing and hope, excitement and expectation to pain, hatred, and finally, spiteful resignation. This culminated in a heartrending cry of "barbaro infidel," closing the work with the fury of a woman scorned.

Throughout the work Ms. Grunewald's voice was warm and focused, rich in the low register, and ringing with overtones up high. The quasi-recitative style of Haydn's setting was delivered in the fashion of a storyteller, recounting the tale with the immediacy of personal experience, drawing her listeners deep into the sanctum of the character's emotional life. Ms. Grunewald's performance glowed with this inner turmoil, vividly portraying the various stages of Arianna's struggle with her fate. Kathryn Lewis supported Ms. Grunewald with her secure, unobtrusive piano accompaniment.

Babbitt's Philomel is based on the Roman myth of Tereus, the king of Thrace. The text begins with Philomel's metamorphosis into a nightingale by the grace of the gods. In her first life, Tereus, her brother-in-law, raped her and then cut out her tongue to keep her silent about his dreadful deed. Her transformation takes place gradually. She rediscovers her voice through guttural nonsense and imitations of the forest sounds around her, culminating in an extended aria celebrating her new-found freedom.

MUSIC

This music is expressionistic in an extreme sense. Babbitt has written for the voice in a manner similar to the way he writes for synthesizer — pointillistic in both pitch and color. These wide-range melodies were sometimes sung, sometimes delivered in sprechstimme (speech-singing).

To perform this properly, the singer must have a very good sense of pitch, since it is nearly impossible to glean pitch references from the taped accompaniment (synthesizer and prerecorded voices). Ms. Bettina had mastered the immense technical difficulties of the piece, performing it with remarkable fluidity. Her enunciation of the text was greatly exaggerated, enhancing the other-worldly quality of its expressionism.

The work's impact was further heightened by the accuracy with which Ms. Bettina coordinated her part with the tape, both in pitch and in timing, ending with a final ethereal tone, matched in timbre and pitch simultaneously on tape and in real time.

The composer was in attendance at this performance, assisting in the tape playback. After extended applause for the singer, he was brought to the stage where he was received with equal warmth.

Theatre Piece. The Davies songs were also written in expressionistic style, but used a technique drawn more from dramatics than from electronic music. Indeed, these songs are more of a theatre piece than either of the other works on the evening's program.

Vocally, Mr. Bell spent considerable time in the extremes of his range — grumbling at absolute bottom for a few notes then soaring into the highest reaches of his splendidly developed falsetto. The piece was as much spoken as it was sung, often flitting between the two and interjecting snippets of known melodies (especially Handel's Comfort ye, a haunting allusion to the mad king's messianic complex) or launching into a swinging English music hall tune.

Mr. Bell made masterful use of his entire range and paced his performance perfectly, leading in his twisted logic to the ultimate silencing of one of his mechanical nightingales (played in cages by four of the six accompanying instrumentalists), smashing his violin over his knee in a fit of rage. So convincing was Mr. Bell's performance in its drama that one felt irresistibly drawn into the searingly painful world of the mad king.

The instrumentalists were situated behind Mr. Bell, allowing him to interact with them throughout the piece. Conducted by Michael Pratt from stage right, the players were Christine Gummers (cello), Cyrus Stevens (violin), John Arucci (percussion), Jean Kop-

LET'S TALK ABOUT

ARE YOU A USER???

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Dio you know that most American gardeners use pesticioes tc control pests and diseases in their gardens??? Many of these controls can be relatively sale when used as directed, yet many gardeners are notorious mis-users of both pesticides and herbicides. The misuse seems to spring from waste and over-use, they don't take the time to observe all the necessary precautions and they figure if a little is helpful, more will be better

The right way is to do EXACTLY what the label on the poison bottle says Labels however, can be confusing To clarify, each label contains the following information: 1 THE BRAND NAME - is what the manufacturer uses for advertising purposes. 2 THE COMMON NAME - simplifies the often long chemical nomenclature. For example, Diazinon is the common name for the insecticide O Odienthyl O - (2 isopropyl - 6 methyl - 4 - pyrimidinyl) phosphorothioate 3 THE INGREDIENT STATEMENT - shows the amount of active ingredient 4 NET CONTENTS - expressed in any unit of measure, tells you how much is in the container 5 FORMULATION Different formulations (wet-table powders, dusts and liquids) require different methods of handling This section tells you how. The same product may come in different formulations 6 NAME & ADDRESS OF THE MANUFACTURER. 7. REGISTRATION NUMBER - Each pesticide must be registered with the U.S. EPA. The number indicates compliance 8 THE PRECAUTIONARY STATEMENT - explains how the product is harmful to humans, domestic animals and environment This section also informs you of any protective equipment and clothing you should wear and of other hazards such as fire and explosion

Next week we'll conclude - but keep WOODWINDS in mind for any of your tree care problems. Call us at 924-3500.

perud (clarinet), Jayn Rosenfeld (flute), and Martin Butler (keyboards). All performed this difficult score superbly.

This writer was somewhat trouhled hy the turnout for this concert, especially considering that it was the only performance of these pieces. One supposes their unfamiliarity and the preponderance of works from the 1960's kept many would-be supporters at home. Rest assured that this writer is not being critical of the practice of presenting such important music in these concerts. One of the hallmarks of this entire festival, though, is the balance achieved between the familiar and the less familiar. Perhaps a better balance in this area would yield greater patronage of the unique opportunities presented by the festival concerts.

A Group with a Romantic Bent, the Mendelssohn Quartet, Performs the First Concert of the Summer Chamber Series

One sure sign that summer has arrived in Princeton is the beginning of a new season of performances sponsored by the Princeton University Outdoor Chamber Concerts. Each year this organization brings a variety of ensembles (usually string quartets) to play in the courtyard of the Graduate College at the university. Though Saturday evening's skies were cloudless, hazy air and an ominous forecast prompted the promoters to move this season's opener into Richardson Auditorium.

It was in that hall that the Mendelssohn String Quartet played to a responsive audience. Three works in the genre were heard in the concert: Mozart's Quartet in F Major (K. 590); Leos Janacek's Quartet No. 2 (Lettres Intimes); and Ravel's only work in this medium, the Quartet in F Major.

Members of the ensemble included Ida Levin and Nicholas Mann, violins, Ira Weller, viola, and Marcy Rosen, cello. They were winners in 1981 of the Young Concert Artists International Audition, and have since been building on their reputation through concert tours and nationally broadcast radio performances.

The Mendelssohn Quartet has a decidedly romantic tinge to all its playing. Without doubt, the Ravel quartet benefitted the most from these leanings. This work sang through these musicians' hands in a manner reminiscent of the Meliora Quartet heard in this series two years ago. Their playing was balanced and controlled in this work, combining a lush and colorful sound with thoughtful and intelligent articulation.

The pizzicato movement (Assez vif) had drive and vigor, yet maintained a gentle ease in its delicate second theme. The third movement lost momentum and some of its lines felt labored. The energy returned in Vif et agite, which was played with such force that the violist broke a string midway through the movement. Surprisingly, it was hardly missed, which says much for the violist's musicianship. Though the movement went very well in spite of the handicap, the ensemble gave it an encore performance after a hasty string replacement.

The Janacek quartet heard this evening was autobiographically programmatic, painting a musical picture of an affair the composer had with a younger married woman. Each of the four movements describes a different level of their relationship from their first meeting to intense longing and finally fulfillment. Ironically, Janacek's death from pneumonia came as a result of an attempt to rescue this woman's son, who was caught in a snowstorm.

Folk Music Influence. Janacek was an ethnomusicologist as well as a composer, and his studies of Moravian folk music so heavily influenced his work that he virtually abandoned the prevailing European compositional trends of his time. His music took on a unique character, owing much to the uneven meters and unusual modes of his country's indigenous music. These two qualities lent themselves to the mounting passion and serene calm which alternately dominated the fabric of this piece.

The unabashedly romantic spirit of this quartet suited the ensemble's temperament. The musicians' approach to the work was filled with enthusiasm, sometimes bordering on overzealousness. Keep in mind that this is very sexy music (if the reader will permit the term), and to play it too carefully simply wouldn't do. Even though their playing was not as neat as some might have liked, it had a richness and immediacy of feeling which transcended minor intonation and ensemble problems and spoke directly to the heart with the music of a soul deeply in love.

While such passionate playing worked in the two post-romantic pieces, it made the reading of the Mozart quartet a little mushy. Such details as lingering slightly on the ends of phrases or swelling into the first note of a line do make for an interesting rendering of the music, though not one of the clearest. Mozart's writing in K. 590 derives much of its charm from his economical use of material. The composer often spends a good portion of time on a single motive, bantering it about on various instruments. Some of these passages (certainly not all) were not as crisp as this listener would like, particularly in the last movement. Nevertheless, there was some good playing in the piece, most notably in the minuet. This movement achieved the kind of clarity which was missing from the other parts of the work.

Once again, this writer feels compelled to comment on concert etiquette. There is no denying that one intent of the Summer Concerts Committee is to produce these concerts in a relaxed atmosphere. However, excessive movement can be very distracting to both listener and performer. Therefore, when these performances are held indoors, concert-goers are encouraged to enter or leave the auditorium only at the end of a piece, or if necessary, between movements. Everyone's enjoyment will surely be enhanced as a result.

The Arts Council Offers Childrens' Workshops

The Arts Council of Princeton will be sponsoring a variety of art workshops for children during July.

A "Be a Puppet" art workshop will be offered to children of grades 2-5 by Susan Kreigman on Wednesday, July 15 from 11 a.m. to noon. Using self-photographs and imagination, participants will create whimsical puppets of themselves. The program has been offered previously at the library and in various public schools.

Additional workshops will be offered by Ms. Kriegman for children grades 2-5 throughout the month. Topics include drawing, weaving and mixed media. Ms. Kriegman, who holds a bachelor of science degree in art education and a master of fine arts degree, has taught art in New Jersey public schools for five years and has received two artist's fellowship grants from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Enrollment for each workshop is limited to 10. For information and registration for the puppet workshop and the other programs in the series, call Susan Kriegman at 799-3012 between July 10 and 13.

Surging Post 76 Team Has Six Wins in a Row

Princeton Post 76 has done its part. Now, say the Princeton players, if only Hamilton Post 31 squad would do the same.

For Post 76 that has meant winning its last six games in a row to climb from a disappointing 2-3 start to 8-3 and second place in the Mercer County American Legion League standings. For Hamilton to do its part it would finally have to lose a game. The Carellas defeated Trenton in their last start to improve their record to a perfect 10-0 mark, 2½ games up on Post 76.

Hightstown edged Hopewell in its last game to remain a half-game behind Post 76 with a 7-3 record. Bordentown is 4-4 and no other team in the league has a winning record.

All-Star Game Sunday. Post 76 will play the second of a home-and-home series with Hopewell Post 339 this Wednesday at 5:45 at the Hopewell Valley High diamond in Pennington and then break for the July 4 holiday. It will resume on Tuesday when it begins a crucial two-game series with league-leading Hamilton. The game will be played at Post 76's home field, Field No. 2 in Mercer Park. The following day, Post 76 will be at Hamilton's home park at Mercer County Community College.

In between, on Sunday will be the fifth annual All-Star game. A 25-member Mercer County American Legion All-Star team will oppose a Bucks County All-Star Team at 7 at Mercer Park. The two teams have split their previous four meetings, Mercer winning last year, 8-2.

The Mercer All-Stars will be managed by Bordentown's Jim Maher. The donation is $2 for adults, $1 for children under 12.

The prediction by Post 76 manager Larry Bender that his team would start to click became a reality last week, but Princeton almost saw its six-game streak end on Monday.

After receiving two consecutive outstanding pitching performances, a no-hitter by Tim Rumer coming on the heels of a two-hitter by Jay Jordan, Post 76, in its outing with Broad Street Park on Monday, seemed on the verge of receiving yet another fine mound performance from Bill Byrne. Through eight innings, Byrne had limited BSP to one run and Princeton owned an 8-1 lead with one inning to play.

Bender brought in Jeff Robinson to pitch the ninth but neither Robinson nor his relief, Jim Brienza, could get BSP out. With one out, Bender summoned Bryne to the mound again, but by the time the inning was over, Broad Street Park had scored seven runs to tie the game at 8.

Princeton finally prevailed in the 12th when 15-year-old third baseman A.J. Pietrinferno singled home Byrne who had gotten on base via an error and had advanced to second when Brienza, who had walked, was cut down at the plate trying to score on another BSP error. It was not pristine baseball; in the last four innings, Post 76 was guilty of nine errors.

Byrne, who was in a rare position to become the winner and also get the save in the same game, got the win, his second against one loss.

Post 76 had built its early lead on the big bat of John Clarkson who had four hits and drove in three runs, and that of Darren Villani who had two hits in three at bats. The loss was the sixth in nine games for BSP.

No-Hitter for Rumer. The previous day, Rumer had shut out Broad Street Park without a hit for a 3-0 victory. Rumer, who tossed a pair of no-hitters in the league last year, struck out nine and walked seven. He helped himself at the plate, too, driving in one run with a double.

Post 76 scored all the runs it needed in the first when Brienza singled, stole second and came home on Rumer's double. Rumer later scored on Villani's ground out. Post 76 added its third run in the sixth on a double by Dan Sexton and Villani's single.

Jordan All the Way. Post 76's third win in as many days — a 6-3 victory over Bordentown — was all Jay Jordan.

First, the former West-Windsor standout was overpowering on the mound, limiting Bordentown to a pair of hits and striking out 12 for his second consecutive two-hit outing. Jordan's only mistake was serving up a high fastball to Jeff Korinko in the sixth which the third-baseman jumped on for a three-run homer and Bordentown's only runs.

Two batters earlier, Rob Montalbano had ended Jordan's bid for a no-hitter with a single to center. Jordan then walked the next batter before facing Korinko.

At the plate, Jordan followed Darren Villani's second-inning triple with a home run over the left field fence, a blast that Bordentown coach Jim Maher described as "the first ball that I've seen hit out to left field in the two years I've been here." When John Mitchell singled and stole his way around the bases, Princeton owned a 3-0 lead.

What were to be the winning runs came in the sixth. After Tim O'Connell had led off with a single, Tim Rumer blasted a tremendous shot over the right field fence. The two combined for four of Princeton's ten hits. Rumer had doubled earlier in the game.

———

Byrne Gets 1st Win. The previous day Bill Byrne was airtight in pitching Post 76 to a 9-3 victory over the Trenton Schroths. In notching his first win, Byrne allowed only five hits, one earned run, fanned five and walked one. "It feels

3 Legion Teams Bound for Playoffs

Princeton Post 76's chances of advancing to the state tournament has increased with the announcement that, for the second straight year, the Mercer County American Legion League will send three teams to the tournament which begins August 8 at four sites throughout the state. Previously, Mercer was allowed to send only two representatives from its 10-team league to participate in the 32-team, double-elimination tournament.

As in past years, the league champion will receive an automatic berth to the state competition. There has been a change, however, in determining the other two teams. This year, the second-place team in the final standings will face the fifth-place team for one tournament spot and the third- and fourth-place teams will square off for the other spot — both in a best-of-three series.

Last year the first- and second-place teams were assured a state tournament berth and there was a playoff to determine a wild-card entrant.

In addition, for the first time since 1984, Mercer County will host the championship round of the state competition which has been held in past years at Lyndhurst. Mercer County is also one of the four, quarter-final sites.

The New Jersey state champion will advance to the Region Two Mid-Atlantic Regionals to be held in late August in Frederick, Md.

FUTURE SLUGGERS: Maybe not a "Murderers' Row" yet but four future sluggers on the Roma Eterna team which ended its season last week in the Princeton Youth Baseball league are from left, Dan Russell, Scott Muzyk, Michael Flumenero and Morgan Battle. "He's been in a battle," said team manager Bill Russell of the young Battle, who has been sidelined with a leg injury.

good," said Byrne who had not won on the mound since April and was beginning to have self-doubts.

The other highlight for Post 76 was the return to the lineup of Darren Villani from summer classes at the University of North Carolina. The four-year veteran got in the groove early with a two-run double in the fifth inning.

Sexton and Mitchell paced Princeton's nine-hit attack with two hits each, while Clarkson contributed a triple. The 76ers put the game out of reach by plating three runs each in the fourth and fifth innings.

Janus Performance. The ancient Roman god of the gates, Janus, had two faces that looked in opposite directions. Rumer gave a Janus performance on the mound against Hightstown, as Post 76 began its comeback week with an impressive 5-2 victory over Hightstown, only the second loss for Post 148 in seven starts.

On the one hand, Rumer looked forward in striking out eight and limiting Bordentown to two hits and one earned run. He looked back by walking eight (22 free passes in 16 innings), hitting one batter and allowing Hightstown to tie the score at 2 in the third with an errant pickoff throw.

Rumer, the dominant pitcher in the league last year, admitted he has to work on his control. But if he was concerned, Bender was not. "So he walked a lot of batters," conceded Bender. "He walked them but they couldn't hit 'em."

Post 76 managed only seven hits off Hightstown hurler Lee Hutchinson but three were doubles and one was a triple by Byrne. A walk and doubles by Jordan and Clarkson had staked Princeton to a two-run lead in the first. Then after Post 148 had tied the score in the third, Post 76 scored the winning runs in the same inning.

Rumer doubled and scored on a ground out and wild pitch for the go-ahead run and Mitchell singled home Clarkson for the fourth run. Post 76 added an unearned run in the fifth on a single by Sexton, throwing error and balk. The win was Rumer's second without a loss.

Leaders Keep Winning In Women's Softball

Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body won both its games last week in the Mercer County Women's League but was unable to gain any ground on its two closest pursuers. Ficarro's defeated Dot's Girls, 5-3, and overwhelmed cellar-dwelling Russert's Deli, 25-1, to increase its record to 14-1, the same mark as 3 Season's. Grove Plumbing also won, remaining a game behind at 13-2 in the 11-team league.

In action this week, Ficarro's will oppose Jan Creighton's Auto & Towing Thursday at 7:30 at Mercer County Park's Field 3.

In the win over Dot's Girls, Ficarro's hitting was supplied by Doreen Ragazzo, Donna Nicholson and Janet Swick, each of whom had two hits. Ragazzo included a triple in one of her two blows and drove in two runs. Clare Baxter was the winning pitcher.

The rout over hapless Russert's (1-15) was an opportunity for fattening batting averages. The victor's 24-hit barrage was led by Swick who batted 5-for-5 and drove in three runs. Grace Durland connected for four hits in five at-bats and had three RBIs, Dee Discavage and Ragazzo each contributed three hits while Cheryl Silva, Sandi Hibbs and Dee Vertucci combined for six more. The game was halted after five innings.

Hockey Club a Winner In First Two Contests

The Central Jersey Hockey Club, based in Princeton, opened its summer season last week in the Bristol (Pa.) Men's Hockey League with two victories. The team defeated the Rebels, 9-5, and Empty Glass, 15-2.

In the Rebel triumph, the Cook family accounted for all the scoring. John Cook had four goals and two assists, his son, Mike, scored three goals and his nephew, Stevie, added two goals and two asissts. Gib Johnson had four assists and goalie Chuck Berman recorded 13 saves.

Against Empty Glass, John Cook and Stevie Cook each connected for four goals, John assisting on five others. Captain Art Eisdorfer had three goals and three assists, while Tony Rosetty, Mark Mayer, Bob Smyth and Fred Frymire all scored once. Berman had eight saves.

In both victories, the victorious Central Jersey team had 38 shots on goal.

Andy's Tavern on Top In Men's Softball Loop

Ten games into the season, Andy's Tavern is in a familiar spot in the Men's Softball League sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department.

Andy's has a solid lead with a 9-1 record, while Hinkson's and Rhino's are tied for second at 6-4. C Square C and Lestician are knotted at 5-5 while Princeton Charcuterie and Ball Busters share the cellar with 1-9 records. Andy's can virtually clinch the championship with a win over the two second-place teams.

A solid defense that has limited the opposition to just under five runs a game, coupled with an attack that averages 15 hits and 11 runs a game, has been one of the reasons for Andy's success this summer — plus consistency: the players have been together as a team for five years.

Scott Porreca is currently leading the team in batting and Jason Petrone in home runs. Jim Lennon leads in runs batted in and veteran Jeff Grover handles the pitching assignment.

Other team members include Pat Kahny, Steve Simcox, Kevin Phox, Tom Foltiny, Alex Versfeld, Anthony Cirullo, Bruce Daniels, Ron Kane and the Petrone brothers. In addition to Jason, there are Jack, Jamie, Judd and Jeff — the last the team coach.

The goal of the team is to win another league title and then go on to compete in the state tournament with teams in their class.

Last year, Andy's finished fifth in the state tourney which qualified it for the Regional Tournament. In the regionals, Andy's finished 20th out of 96 teams. This year's regionals will be held in Maryland over Labor Day weekend.

Registration Under Way For August Soccer Clinic

Registration is now under way for the Princeton Soccer Association's summer soccer clinic to be held August 10-14 at Community Park.

Boys and girls in grades 2-4 will attend from 9 to 12:30; those in grades 5-7 from 1:30-5. The fee of $50 includes a jersey and ball. The clinic will be led by two English professional soccer players experienced in teaching youth soccer.

Registration is also continuing for the fall PSA house league on Saturday mornings, which will resume Sept. 12. This program is open to boys and girls in K-8 grades. The fee is $25.

Registration forms for both the clinic and house league can be obtained by writing to PSA, 17 Maple Street, Princeton, or by calling 924-8243.

day the library has every issue going back to 1857.

It was Miss Critchlow's idea to index the two local papers, so that items of interest to the community would not get lost and could be retrieved easily. She and another librarian attended a workshop on how to index a paper, and they established some 175 headings under which items were to be filed. She also enlisted the help of regular volunteers, for it takes from 2½-3½ hours, depending on the size and number of pages, to index a single issue.

This is a priceless resource for members of the community who want to look up a topic, such as the development history of Palmer Square, or consolidation efforts over the years. The years from 1975 to mid-1983 are on microfilm; those from mid-1983 are on card file and will probably be made available via computer as the library becomes computerized, Miss Critchlow says.

Outreach. Once the library moved to the new building it became more involved with the community, Miss Critchlow says. Over the years, she has been particularly interested in extending its services to those who can't get to the library easily. She enjoys choosing books for the rotating book collection to go out to residents of Redding Circle and Lloyd Terrace and showing a film each year to members of the YWCA's Friday Club.

Another project has been Home Readers — bringing books to the homebound — and here again, Miss Critchlow helped coordinate the volunteers and often made deliveries herself. She also enjoys helping school children research school-assigned topics.

"I like all age groups," she says. "One of the the benefits of a public library is that it has a spectrum of age."

Princeton Area Authors. Miss Critchlow has also been interested in promoting the acquisition of books by authors from this area, and the talents of local filmmakers. A highlight was this year's Author! Author! party in celebration of the Friends' 25th anniversary. She also has enjoyed giving tours of the library, such as those she used to give to students in the hospital's School of Nursing — which no longer exists — and to various ethnic groups in Princeton for study or research.

"The library has an important function in acclimating people to town," Miss Critchlow believes.

Having participated in the transformation of the library from being "just books" to include a wide array of audio-visual technology, Miss Critchlow sees the library now becoming an information center. The next wave will be information technology.

Through desk-top computers, library users today can key into stock price quotations and company information in the Dow Jones data base. Or they can find out what magazines nationwide carry articles about a particular topic through a computerized index to periodicals called Infotrac.

The next step is a computer data base for catalogue information. From the Online Library Computer Center, Inc. the library will have access to information on some 15 million items across the the U.S. Having mastered audio-visual technology herself, and become head of the audio-visual department, Miss Critchlow believes in a positive approach to technology in order not to be intimidated by the machine itself.

Nonetheless, she thinks it is the right time to retire. "I have done everything I wanted to do," she says, including some cataloguing of foreign language books, using her knowledge of French and Spanish. She retires officially July 31 and plans to do a little travelling in New England and perhaps some work on the family home on Westcott Road.

"I've had a nice family life," she remarks. Miss Critchlow's professor father died many years ago, her mother only recently. Her brother lives in Harbourton and has three grown children. Her sister, who is profoundly deaf but nonetheless studies the piano at Westminster Conservatory and art with the Princeton Art Association, lives at home.

Praise for Director. Miss Critchlow speaks warmly about Mr. Staples, who also leaves the Public Library this summer after 23 years. "He has given each one of us full rein to work out our special talents, and has always taken such a personal interest in each one of us, whenever we have problems. His door is always open, and he is always a listening ear. This town won't get anyone like him again."

She also speaks warmly of her colleagues and their particular projects — to the point that the interviewer cuts her off. After all, this is an article about Miss Therese Critchlow, who was a "fixture" at the Princeton Public Library for 23 years. Her retirement marks the end of an era in itself.
